Building Stability and Prosperity in Haiti Through Justice

November 23, 2016

Dear [Salutation],

As the holiday celebrations approach, please join the Institute for Justice & Democracy in Haiti (IJDH) and the Bureau des Avocats Internationaux (BAI) in celebrating a year of victories for justice in Haiti. Along with our collaborators in Haiti and abroad, we have made a historic and sustainable impact in 2016, including:

- The United Nations admitted involvement in bringing cholera to Haiti and promised to take “significant measures” in response. This is a big step forward to obtaining comprehensive water and sanitation in Haiti that will save thousands of lives per year, and compensation for the victims. Smaller victories along the way included:
 - ✓ A series of reports from UN Human Rights experts urging the UN to respect the cholera victims’ human right to compensation;
 - ✓ Letters from 162 Members of the U.S. Congress—Democrats and Republicans—calling on the U.S. State Department to seek a just resolution of the cholera crisis;
 - ✓ Editorial Boards from the New York Times (twice), The Washington Post, Boston Globe (twice), Miami Herald, The Lancet and many other outlets supported the victims’ fight for justice. Hundreds of articles appeared in audio and print, in dozens of countries on every inhabited continent.
- Deeply flawed Presidential elections were stopped, irregularities were investigated and more credible elections were scheduled. This victory provides Haitian voters a second chance to choose their government, and establishes the precedent that Haitian voters and civil society, supported by allies abroad, can overcome election manipulation by Haitian and foreign governments.
- Several BAI rape clients—all poor women and girls—had their day in court, while children abandoned by UN Peacekeeper fathers launched an unprecedented campaign for child support.

(over, please)

- A new collaboration with disability activists—grown out of the tragic killings of three deaf women—worked to build justice for disabled communities, which are often excluded from rights discussions.
- BAI continued to provide legal representation, meeting space and advice to Haitian activists and grassroots groups standing up against injustice, and to train the next generation of Haitian human rights lawyers.
- IJDH continued to amplify and support BAI's work, bringing Haitian voices abroad where decisions about Haitian rights are routinely made.

All this progress was only possible because of our generous donors. We are reaching out to ask you to make more victories possible through financial support of our work.

Please think about what inspires you most about our campaigns for a more just Haiti, then select one of the enclosed vouchers and return it with your gift of $100, $50, or $25. You will be part of the solution for Haiti by:

- Building accountability for cholera victims, bringing justice and clean water to all of Haiti.
- Protecting the right of Haitian voters to freely elect a government of their choosing.
- Ensuring a woman's right to access courts when she is a victim of violence.

When you give the gift of justice to Haiti, you strengthen the foundations of stability and prosperity for Haitian generations to come.

With hope and gratitude,

Brian Concannon Jr.
